

Learning a New Program Reflection

Introduction:

Most of you have just learned to use Paint.NET for the first time in the past week. We used several different ways to learn how to use it: lecture demonstration, written step by step instruction, trial & error (just trying things out yourself), help from your teacher & classmates, and watching video demonstration. I want you to think about these ways of learning a new program, and think what were the most effective for you by answering these questions.
